Important Travel Tips

Metro expects high ridership to Inaugural events. Be prepared for long lines, crowded trains and buses and intermittent delays.

Sign up for Metro Inauguration Alerts at wmata.com/inauguration. By email and text message, we will provide real-time updates of any service changes over Inauguration Weekend, as well as important news about traveling on Metro prior to the event.

Follow us on Twitter. Our special Inauguration Twitter account is @MetroInaug. You can also follow our main Metro account @wmata.

Plan your Metrorail trip so that you do not have to transfer between rail lines. Pick a destination station on the same line as your origin. There is a station near the National Mall on each of Metro’s five rail lines.

Washington is a walkable city. On Inauguration Day, consider avoiding crowded stations and trains by walking up to two miles to reach your destination.

When traveling to events, factor in your ability to walk, stand and tolerate cold temperatures for an extended period. Dress warmly.

We strongly recommend purchasing your farecard or SmarTrip® card in advance to avoid long lines on Inauguration Day. Each traveler age 5 or older needs his or her own card to enter and exit the Metrorail system. You can buy cards online at wmata.com, transit store or at any Metrorail station, Metro sales office or local CVS, Giant or Safeway stores. If you’re not using a One Day Pass, be sure to load enough value on your SmarTrip® or farecard for your entire trip — in advance — for each member of your group. If you use a paper farecard, a $1 surcharge applies for each Metrorail trip you take. Metrobus fares can be paid with cash (exact change) or with a SmarTrip® card.

Bicycles, large coolers or containers will not be permitted aboard Metrorail during Inauguration Weekend. Prohibited items at Inauguration events include weapons, explosives, backpacks, laser pointers, alcohol, sticks and poles. For a complete list of prohibited items, check the website for your event. Also, smoking, eating and drinking are prohibited within the Metro system, including trains, buses and stations.

See something? Say something. Report unattended packages or suspicious activity to a Metro employee or call Metro Transit Police at 202-962-2121 or 911.

Parking

Parking is free on Saturday and Sunday. On Inauguration Day, you will pay regular parking rates at Metro-operated parking facilities. Pay the fee as you exit the facility using the value on a SmarTrip® card or with a credit card. Cash is not accepted. Also, you cannot use a One Day Pass to pay for parking unless you add value to the SmarTrip® card.

Parking lots and garages at Metro stations will fill very quickly on Inauguration Day. If you plan to park at a station, have a backup plan if parking is full. Consider connecting bus service, carpool, taxi, biking or even walking if possible.

Only authorized buses, such as Metrobuses and other transit buses, may access the stations. Bus parking is strictly prohibited at Metrorail stations. Charter bus operators must follow instructions on the District of Columbia’s Inauguration website: inauguration.dc.gov.

Your commemorative SmarTrip® card can also be used as a flash pass for unlimited Metrobus travel on Inauguration Day. Metrobus Service on Inauguration Day

Inauguration Day road closures will result in service changes for more than 50 Metrobus routes. However, taking Metrobus may still be your best way to get to the National Mall.

Where to board the bus

Look for red, white and blue Metrobus stop signs along major roadways. The sign will tell you which Metrobus routes serve that stop. On Inauguration Day, buses traveling to or near the National Mall will display a special sign in the windshield, and you can always ask the bus operator if he or she is going to stop near the National Mall. To check bus arrival times or get more information, visit wmata.com or call 202-637-7000.

Metrobus will operate on a regular weekday schedule (frequent rush-hour service) prior to the Inauguration and then operate P.M. rush-hour service earlier in the afternoon to get you home. However, due to road closures, many routes that normally cross the secure area will turn around near the National Mall. That means you may not be able to use buses to travel to destinations on the other side of the National Mall, but you can use them to get to the Inauguration. There will be temporary bus stops around the security perimeter of the event where bus routes will end. Look for the symbols on the map on the opposite side for routes’ turn-around locations. From there, you can walk to the National Mall or ask your bus operator for an emergency transfer to cross the Mall on Metrorail.

These major bus service corridors will provide your best way into the National Mall Area.

Other important tips

- Coming in from east of the Anacostia River? Metrobus routes A2, A6, A8 will extend to Waterfront station to provide direct access to the National Mall and eliminate the need to transfer to Metrorail.

- Detours and special terminals will be in effect throughout downtown D.C. all day Monday and into the late evening to accommodate the security needs of Inaugural events and celebrations.

- You are encouraged to sign up for Metro Inauguration Alerts at wmata.com/inauguration to receive additional bus service information as it becomes available.

Enhanced airport bus service

Metrobus 5A provides service between Washington Dulles International Airport and L’Enfant Plaza in downtown D.C. with a stop at Rosslyn station on the Orange Line. Metrobus B30 provides service between Baltimore Thurgood Marshall International Airport and Greenbelt station on the Green Line. Metro will provide enhanced service on both routes from Thursday, Jan. 17, through Tuesday, Jan. 22.

Keep it moving

To board as quickly and safely as possible, we recommend using a SmarTrip® card. If you use a Commemorative Inaugural SmarTrip® card, simply show it to the bus operator to ride free on Inauguration Day. If you use a regular SmarTrip® card, load enough value on your card before the Inauguration. On all regular routes, Metrobus fare is $1.60 when using a SmarTrip® card. If you use cash, the fare is $1.80 (exact change).
